Captain G. H. Richards R.N.

Dear Sir

The accompanying letter for the late Admiral Washington whose loss I deeply deplore, is sent unaltered to you, as I am informed by Sir Thomas Maclear that you have been appointed chief of the Hydrographic Office. We have been in the habit of corresponding in the familiar style of that letter and as we shall start for the sea as soon as we have wooded, the want of time to write otherwise is my excuse for begging you to consider it as addressed to yourself:

The flood came unusually late this season but rose very high. It was the more trying to wait so long in as much as I felt that there was actually abundance of time for my having explored the Lake Bemba and a portion of the river system of the Luapula which possibly discharges through Tanganyika into the Casai & Congo, but all enjoyed good health.

We carried away the Rudder by being swept against a bank by the current. this delayed us so that we were a fortnight in coming down the Shire. We took off the last of the missionaries from Morambala mountain and some forty captives who had been attached to the mission [^] [of]bishop Mackenzie, but whom bishop Tozer wished to abandon. as I was instrumental in liberating these captives I felt in honour bound to see them out of the country if necessary at my own expense. they are put on board the Lady Nyassa.

The Portuguese officials have all been very civil to me personally, though we know that these poor people were captured by means of their slaves. In our intercourse they never refer to the subject. The liberated are chiefly boys and all exceedingly glad to go with their missionary friends two of whom we have on board

I am informed by D^r Kirk that on the recommendation of the surgeon of the Orestes D^r Playfair, the seamen

[0004]

discharged from the Pioneer - D^r Kirk himself & M^r Livingstone were sent by the overland passage. On account of the expense I cautioned D^r Kirk not to take that route & said if he did so it must be at his own cost. It seems D^r Playfair had said that he would have nothing to do with the men & on his authority Captain Gardner decided on the overland passage. I used the necessary precaution previously so am not responsible for the measure.

I intend to go Northwards - perhaps to Bombay in search of a market for Lady Nyassa there being no probability of our disposing of her at the Cape -

And am Dear Sir

Faithfully yours

David Livingstone
