My Dear Sir

Your very welcome letter safely reached its destination about two months ago, I need not state how acceptable it was - for communications from our friends always come like cold water to a thirsty soul - We have been enjoying the pleasure of a visit to our friends out here for sometime back - The chief object I had in view in coming was to attend a meeting of committee - The chief object of my wife seems to have been to add another unit to the population of this planet - The newspapers say that a new one has been discovered in our solar system - So if you are a disciple of M<sup>r</sup> Matthews you will not be disheartened by the above little bit of information there is yet plenty of Room in the wide creation -

It is with much pleasure I acknowledge your kind epistle previous to returning to our sphere of labour. We are glad to hear that your elder sons are so honourably engaged May God grant that they may ever feel it both a privilege & an honour to be permitted to enter into the service of our Great Redeemer. We were delighted to hear from M<sup>r</sup> Melmore that your son John had some desire to be a missionary - I hope he will dedicate his whole being to ^ the service of Christ - He has plenty of work for all his people and will if he commits his way unto him, so direct his paths as that he will be loved & useful through life and in death he will not be unlamented I confess I feel in respect to him a little of what the French call "esprit de Corps" We all belong to one army - all fight one side you however belong to Regements of the Line and we are like the Rifle brigade scattered in over the ground still occupied by the enemy - It will therefore be no great harm though I should love my fellow sharp shoote[...][r] with peculiar affection - I hope he will not be a missionar[...][y] in the colony - For if I had my will I would have all the missio[...][n] out of it & in the real mission fields which are now lying totally uncultivated - But Directors must be wiser peopl[...][e] than I am.

I beg leave to thank Charles for his kind intentions - Ho[...] the seeds will come before spring - What does he intend to be? I remember seeing him one morning reading the Bible - Set th[...] be the man of his counsel & he wont stick in the world no[...][t] yet cause any of his relatives to feel shame in saying that is "ou[...][r] Charles - A young brother of mine who bears the same nam[...][e] has attained the degree of A.B. in a College in Ohio & is now study[...][ing] theology - He would like to be a missionary, but health impaired hardship seems to forbid the accomplishment of his desire, I remembe[...][r] Martha very well - Her namesake of old seems to have been a right good housewife. What a terrible pucker she was in to have every exquisite in her "set out" Hope our Martha will be as good in d[...][dom] -estic affairs and a great deal better in attention to the words of Him into whose lips grace was poured & who spake as never man spa[...][ke] May He dwell in all your hearts -

Previous to coming out to this quarter M<sup>rs</sup> L & I took a lon[...][g] trip to the Eastward of the Bakwain Country - our route lay North of what is called Magale's berg - a very fine country indeed - no[...][w] both above & below - for both copper iron & Tin ores abound It is well ventured by the tributaries of the Ourie or Limpopo - The state of the people however does not present features so pleasing - We visited several tribes which were once under the power of Mosilikatse - & were kindly received - one chief told us that he was an attendant on that dignitary when he visited M<sup>r</sup> Moffat's waggon - But both these and other tribes situated farther to the North East live in a state of hopeless ignorance - about 6 days Eastward from the Ourie we came to the Bagalaka - quite a cluster of tribes - and all very populous - they seem to be as numerous as all the rest of the Bechuanas put together - Rich in cattle and able to manufacture the different ores with which their country abounds - they know how to mix copper & tin in order to form an amalgam which resembles gold or fine brass We procured a few spindles & distaffs with which they sp[...][in] cotton and that seems indiginous for we saw some cotton trees growing in the hills - all live in entire ignora[...][nce] of what our Great Redeemer did for us 1800 years ago some think of missionary life as one of great sacrifice the most trying thing to me in it is to see such fields & feel that I do & can do so little for their cultivation while so much remains to be done - Pray ye the Lord of this to avert &c in all probability these crowds of poor sinful beings will pass away into the region of the dead without fully com- prehending whither they are going - you will understand that we can do but little for these distant tribes when I mention that we were 19 days travelling before we reached the most distant -

There are a great number of Dutch emigrants in that quarter and to these I beg leave to draw a little of your sympathy I shall beg something else besides sympathy and when I do so I have no expectation that though you see the word Give Give you will turn to M<sup>rs</sup> M. & say "Why here is anothe[...][er] horse leech at me" - the state of these people - our own flesh & blood - is anything but encouraging - they are beyond the range of Colonial laws and the bad among them will not obey the wishes of the better disposed - The children whom I saw are growing up in comparative ignoran[...][ce] of Divine things & the parents in many instances did not seem much to regret the want of a knowledge of letters [...] grieved me for I had the impression that their fore- [...][fa]thers like our own always desired their children to be taught [...] Gert Kruiger the commandment of the Mogale's berg district [...][in]formed me that several chests of elementary books had [...][be]en sent to Delagoa Bay by the good people in Holland - [...][b]ut no one was public spirited enough to go down for them [...] however professed to be anxious that his children be furn- [...][-ish]ed with books - He was once an attendant on your ministry [...]spoke of you with great affection - and I confess I spoke [...][ab]out you in the same terms in the way of trying to make [...] friendship a kind of passport to his own - they have [...] general a great aversion to missionaries - the cause [...][o]f their dislike seems to be an idea that we wish to furnish [...] natives with fire arms and whether right or wrong [...][a]lways take the side of the latter - the Road of the Com- [...][-m]andant Potgeiter determined to disarm the chief with [...]hoth we like - As I believed an attack would disperse [...] tribe and scatter all by labours to the winds - I represent [...] the case to them & appealed to their better feelings [...][on] behalf of the station - they very kindly acceded to my [...][r]equest to let him alone - Still they look upon me [...][w]ith distrust and are divided in their opinions as [...][to] whether the concession made ought not to be rescinded [...] case causes me uneasiness - my heart's desire is [...][t]o do good to all as I have opportunity & have as little to [...][do] with Politics as possible - To owe you any ^ Dutch tracts [...][a]t your disposal? I should much like to have it in [...][a]ny power to give a tract where I can do nothing else Will you help me in this respect? - If you can [...][a]ssist the emigrants by ~~my~~ means of tracts perhaps a [...]ter to some of them by whom you are known in commendation of the doctrines taught ^ [...] will ensure their favoura[...][ble] reception - or perhaps some of your influential members might write their friends in the Mogale's berg quarter - I should be happy to forward any communication sent - I make these remarks not in the way of dictation - but as hints - a hint has often put me into plan of usefulness so I think you will - whether you think them proper or not take mine in good part -

I have a great desire to place a native teacher in one of the tribes over there - But the distrust with which we are regarded seems unfavourable to the project - the emigrants lately attacked a large tribe of Bagalaka which was situated a little beyond those we visited - To me the affair appears to have been entirely wrong - the most that can be said in defence of the massacre is that information was obtained from other chiefs that the chief of that tribe intended to attack the Emigran[...][ts] a chief scarcely ever speaks well of his neighbour - But independe[...][nt] of this we know that revenge never dies in the savage boso[...][m] and though they have no fire arms now they may yet procure them & prove as troublesome as the Caffres - I say this much about it that you may understand what I shall now state - We went to the Bagalaka simply to preach the gospel - We did not go near the tribe which was lately attacked, yet a general impression was made among the Boers that our object was to obtain information for the Colonial Government!! It is trying to have one's motives looked upon in that light, I have not yet attained to a resignation which will admit my good to be evil spoken of without a pang.

[0006]

We have not been long with ^ the Bakwains, but have reason for thankfulness in the symptoms of progress made amo[...][ng] them - they were entire heathens when we came - and in a state totally unlike that of the tribes in the vicinity of the Kuruman - Here the leaven has spread & been spreading during the last 25 years - through all the Southern tribes of Bechuanas - they have been brought into a state favourable for missionary operations and as soon as a missionary settles with them the favourably inclined draw around him and soon obtain confidence enough to make a profession But in the interior tribes it is quite different - the whole subject is new to them They have no objection to meet once or twice but when they percieve that we repeat our message again and again - they think, "this will never do - there is no end to this preaching and praying" - One said to me "I tel[...][l] you what it is, we should like you much better if you came and traded with us & then went away about you[...][r] business" "We dont like this "word God" at all" yet we percieve amongst many a desire to learn - all are kind & respectful to us - several adults are trying to acquire the knowledge of reading - In this the chief has succeeded best - Having read through the selection before I left - and reached Mark in the New Testament - He is very desirous of obtaining inform[...][-] -ation on what he reads. But whether it will end in his conversion we can only hope & pray that it may - That he is desirous of civilization

[0007]

I think we may conclude once he sent out goods with us to purchase a mattress - 4 lanterns - 6 candle boxes - a baking po[...][t -] a smoothing iron - a table &c and soap in an article which bot[...][h] he & others eagerly buy - It is the day of small things wi[...][th] us - so we count almost everything a favourable sympto[...][m] you will remember us in your prayers that our labour may not be in vain

All the missionaries here are well, Mr Hamilton ha[...][s] first returned from visiting an outpost or two & though frail is moving about - His usefullness is not over yet for he taught me to make windows lately - If you say this letter is badly written Remember it is penned just after forging a set of harrow teeth out of an old waggon wheel band - Fine doctoring this yet my fingers must be nimble enough to cut out a tumour tomorrow out of a woman's back - if your son becomes a missionary in this country he must lay his account with being a jack of all trades - It is not at all unpleasant to be so - The thought "can do" sooth[...][es] ones pride & we feel it agreeable to be somewhat independent

Please present very kind regards to Mrs M. from Mr & Mrs Moffat the latter intends a visit to the Cape soon - If Mr Ashton knew I was writing they would salute you too. They lost a fine little boy a short time ago. M<sup>rs</sup> L. & self desire to be kindly remembered to M<sup>rs</sup> M. & all the children we know. May you each be favoured with grace according to your need is the wish of yours affectionately

D Livingston

[0008]

P.S. I do not wonder that the Boors should now be loathe to go down to Delagoa Bay for books, or a minister, as I saw a trader who wen[...][t] down from Brigstadt with four others and he alone returned t[...][o] tell the tale - the others were cut off by fever - they had declin[...][ed] going previous to the danger of fever being known -

Their disinclination however need not influence our efforts for their good - DL.

grains of Rye too - ?

I hope you will not refrain using your influence with the emigrants I have mentioned from an an idea that you have none - they spoke of you with great affection & respect and I am sure whatever & whoever you might recommend would be favourably recieved
